Dear Seniors,

The book you now hold in your hands is more than just a scrapbook filled with photos and happy memories from your time here at Eastern Nazarene. It is both a chronicle of some of the most important, formative years of your life and a testament to the long hours of study and hard work you have invested in your education.

Soon you will leave the ENC campus and enter a world that at times can seem tumultuous, strife-torn and even frightening. Despite the tremendous advances achieved in science, medicine and knowledge, it is a world in which people of different races, creeds and ideologies often fall back on age-old patterns of enmity, mistrust and violence. But it is also a world of great hope and great joy; a world into which each year, bright, committed, idealistic young people like you venture forth, armed with the love of God and a desire to share His word.

There may be times when your faith and commitment will be tested. You may question your abilities, your career prospects, and even your faith. And though you may not believe it now, there may even be times when you yearn to be back at ENC, cramming for finals in the library, cheering on our Lions or just hanging out with friends in the arboretum. Having come to know so many of you during the past four years, however, I am confident that your time here has well prepared you for the challenges you will face.

Believe in yourself and trust in the path that God has set before you. "Don't let anyone think less of you because you are young," 1 Timothy 4:12 tells us. "Be an example to all believers in what you say, in the way you live, in your love, your faith and your purity."

As you flip through these pages, I hope you'll take a moment to fondly reflect on your time here at Eastern Nazarene. I also hope that, many years from now, you'll occasionally pull out this yearbook and remember the students, faculty and staff who make ENC such a loving, caring Christian community dedicated to preparing the next generation of Christian leaders. For as you prepare to make the transition from ENC student to ENC alumnus, please know that whatever path you follow, the love, prayers and support of the entire ENC community go with you.

Blessings,
President Corlis McGee

Class of 2010,

We did it! Congratulations! These past years have gone by so fast, but it seems that our journey is only just beginning. Our class has every reason to be proud of this accomplishment.

I am very proud to be one of your classmates. We exemplify young adults who will provide leadership and ambition beyond the walls of ENC. These examples have been expressed through our academics, relationships with our friends and professors, being able to provide encouragement, and in ministry roles. It also has been seen in our athletics and involvement in campus organizations.

ENC has provided us with a proper foundation to thrive in anything that comes our way. Our memories for the past years are all surrounded by the support and comfort of ENC. Never forget the foundation, the memories, or the journey that we are on. It really is all just beginning: the exploration and adventures of life. I hope you continue to keep your trust in God; He knows what we need. I pray that wherever life takes you, you have a life filled with passion.

Congratulations Senior Class!
I am truly going to miss you guys,

Class of 2011,

It's amazing how fast time flies! I remember freshman year, when we all arrived at ENC, like it was yesterday. Since then, the friendships we have made have grown stronger and developed into relationships that will last a lifetime. Our education here is coming along too! We are no longer the undecided majors that were unsure of God's plans; now we are the upperclassmen that know God has a plan for each of us and we are daily seeking His wisdom and discretion to make that plan a reality. For that, I am so proud of all of you! It has been an honor serving our class.

So here's to our achievements so far and for all that is to come in the short time we have left. Next year will be our last together and though some of us are more than ready for graduation, I know some of us just wish we could hold on a little longer. This is my message to you all: enjoy the time you have left here while it lasts! Junior year has been a year of growth, strengthening, and lots of work for us all, but we pulled through once again!
So do not be discouraged Class of '11, continue to work hard and keep your eye on the goal!

Love and Blessings,

Sarah M. Dutra
Class President

Hello fellow classemates!

Wo Ho! We're offically upperclassmen! We've been able to survive the lice epidemic, the fall of J-term, and SWINE FLU! I wish you all the best of luck in the next two years of your college career. I hope that in these past two years you've not only made great friends but have had great experiences. I can only think of one honest piece of advice that I'd like to give you, and that is to take every opportunity that you are given. If you see a part in a play that your interested in, try out. If you want to play on a sports team, do it. If you feel called to missions, listen. Do everything in your life that comes into your path. I want you all to look back on your life, when you're older, and say "Yeah, I lived my life to the fullest."

Live it up,

Dear Freshman class,

It has been great representing the Class of 2013! I never planned on being the Class President, but some of you convinced me otherwise with the promise of free food. Yes, the food has been quite tasty, but in all seriousness, I am thankful that I can represent the Freshman class here at ENC. It has been an honor, and I pray that God blesses your futures, whether it be continuing your education here at ENC, or elsewhere.

You guys and girls have been great!

My life, as I reflect on it after a half century, is a mosaic of faces. The people I have known have given me so much meaning over the years--my beloved family, the fascinating scholars I have had the pleasure of working with, and a wonderful roster of students. For a quarter century, I have had the great pleasure of getting to know young people in college. You guys are great. You have inspired me with your idealism, entertained me with your humour, frustrated me with your occasional disorientation. Some of you have worked with me on my books, mowed my lawn, and cleaned my house. Some of you helped me build my house. Thanks for being so interesting.....

To the Graduating Seniors,

A few years ago at a small coffee shop in rural Kentucky, I saw a photograph on the wall that I found fascinating. A copy of it is now in my office.

It is a photograph of train tracks going through the mountains of Kentucky. The tracks are going around a bend in the mountain. There is a thick mist ahead. It is rather dark in the early morning hours and what is around the curve ahead is unknown to the viewer. The picture, to me, is incredibly thrilling.

I am reminded of this picture as you graduate. There is a bend ahead, you're not sure what's out there or what's around the corner. There is a heavy fog so you cannot see clearly. You only know that the tracks are leading forward. The tracks will guide you if you will just trust them.

As you leave ENC, my prayer for each of you is that you will trust in the Lord Jesus Christ and allow Him to guide you in all areas of life. I know the concerns you have–I once had them too. And I've learned that life can be an exciting journey in which you can rest assured that God will guide you, if you but trust Him.

Trust God from the bottom of your heart;
don't try to figure out everything on your own.
Listen for God's voice in everything you do, everywhere you go;
he's the one who will keep you on track.
(Proverbs 3:5 The Message)

Grace and peace to you, my friends, as you move on in your journey and around the next bend. Please know that we at ENC are all very proud of you and look forward to the days when our tracks cross again (not in a train wreck kind of crossing but in nice meeting...like you see on Thomas and Friends).

It has been my privilege to serve you as Chaplain and I will miss you.

Your servant,
Corey

The 2009-2010 school year turned out to be big news for ENC's one and only student-produced newspaper. The name changed from the Campus Camera to the Veritas News and the staff increased from half a dozen writers to more than fifteen writers, editors, cartoonists, columnists and photographers. After a rocky start, the Veritas went on to produce a monthly 8-page newspaper and throughout the year covered stories from flooding on the campus to the Harlem Superstars. This year was certainly eventful, and can be marked as a turning point for ENC's student newspaper.

Sports

The 2010 Winter Olympics were held in Vancouver and were an exciting study break for ENC students as they supported their favorite countries and athletes. Whether watching on the television in the Colonel's Cafe, in the lounges across campus, or in their room online, many tuned in to such events as skiing, skating, and the highly anticipated U.S. versus Canada Hockey game. Clara Hughes, an Olympic cycler and speed skater and the only person to have won multiple medals in both the winter and summer games, has advice for all of us: "If you dream and you allow yourself to dream you can do anything."

See you all in London in 2012!

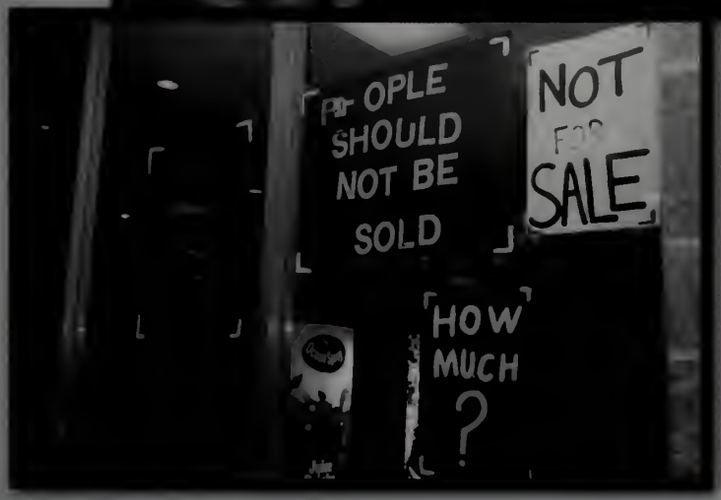
Date Auction



The Valentine's Week (Mop/Twirp) Date Auction caused some controversy this year. A Freshman girl and some of her supporters posted flyers, at the same time the Date Auction was being advertised, stating the moral issues they had with such a choice. They used human trafficking as a comparison to the SGA-sponsored event. On the actual night, there were people putting up the posters to the left, and protesting the ongoings.

Dedication

I am honored to share that the class of 2010 would like to dedicate our yearbook to Dr. Corey MacPherson. Many people know his voice from chapel, but more importantly our student body knows his heart. From early mornings to late nights, Corey tirelessly works to make the spiritual life on campus vibrant, challenging and welcoming. Since becoming chaplain in 2008, he has guided the student body through several difficult conversations including sexuality, social justice, and science-and-religion. And he is just getting started.

Corey recognizes that students need a place to dialogue about challenging issues, and he does not shy away from relevant topics. At the same time, students can count on Corey to bring a sense of humor to chapel and other campus activities. Corey and his family can be found cheering on the Lions, worshipping with the Gospel Choir and A Cappella Choir, and inviting students to home cooked meals. The senior class is proud to dedicate the 2010 Nautilus to our chaplain, mentor and friend.

Corey graduated from ENC in 1996 and Nazarene Theological Seminary in 2000. He is married to Edie MacPherson and they have two children. In 2009, he received a doctorate of ministry from Asbury Theological Seminary and he recently became ENC's vice president of spiritual development and church relations.

John Quincy Adams once said, "If your actions inspire others to dream more, learn more, do more and become more, you are a leader." After working for the past two years with Corey, I can honestly say his hard work and dedication to the ENC community is inspiring.

Corey, thank you for sharing your heart and vision.

Blessings,

"Everybody has a secret world inside of them. All of the people of the world, I mean everybody. No matter how dull and boring they are on the outside, inside them they've all got unimaginable, magnificent, wonderful, stupid, amazing worlds. Not just one world. Hundreds of them. Thousands maybe."

~The Sandman, Neil Gaiman

So, it's the end of my senior year...I have so many things to say, but only this page in which to say it. I want to thank ENC for my education, my friendships, and for the memories. This yearbook is supposed to capture the memories of this year, not just the events SGA put on, but the candid moments between friends. It is supposed to remind you of what 2009 and 2010 were like, maybe when you pull it down and blow the dust of the cover in twenty years. Your kids and grandkids will blush at the funny faces you were making, laugh incredulously at the movies that came out in theatres (?!), or maybe they will compare your undergrad photo to their school picture ("we do look alike!"). Whatever happens, history has been made and it was our hope to capture some of that in this book. The rest of the memories are up to you.

Thank you to SDO, SGA, Carissa, Erica, Anthony, Cheryl, Meghan, Phil, Staci, Prof Holt and all that helped make this yearbook happen. Thank you to Jess and Steph for your awesome photos. Thanks to Rita for all your layout design help. Thank you to Tory for stepping in and being amazing. Thank you to the English and History Departments. Thank you to all my friends for being there every year, whether you were at school or had graduated. And last but not least, thank you to God for inspiration and listening to my incessant prayers for strength and patience.

Frank - you will always be my brother, as ridiculous as you are. Justin - you are the best listener and the best hugger. Matt - you are the best Pepe. Tyler - you are totally rhombus. Anthony - you always make me smile. Amanda - you are truly one of the most interesting people I have ever met. Adam - even though we aren't that close, I always feel like I can depend on you. Alex - you are the best Go partner around. Carissa - you are simply the best. Jackie - thanks for being a great roomate and a great fellow reader. Rhiannon - I miss you and you are one of the most creative people I know. Josh and Rebecca - you are great friends separately and together. Mom, Dad, Sarah and Scotty - you are the best family a girl could ask for. MamMac and Poppop - thank you for all of your encouragement throughout the years. Tim - I love you, Spikee :)

"Think of all the things that hold you back and realize that you don't need them...think of all the mistakes you have made in your life, make sure that you never repeat them...name ten thousand reasons why you never wanna die, go and tell someone who might've forgotten...try to list the endless reasons why it's good to be alive, and then just smile for awhile about them"
- Paul Baribeau

Working with the Nautilus was one of the most rewarding experiences I have been able to have. The main reason for this goes to all the great people i was able to meet and work with. I would like to say a special thank you to Jessica Gibbons, Stephanie Pestilli, Rita Wigle, Erica McGrath, Carissa Schutz, Tyler Restrick, Anthony Lacina, and Vern Wesley. Lastly, thank you, Bethany Macpherson, for all your hard work this year and for making the yearbook AWESOME!

To my friends- You are the best!! Thank you for a very memorable Junior year! Holla Back <3

Jesus, Thank you for being always being there for me to fall back on.

See The Beauty In Everything.

"Now to him who is able to do immeasurably more than all we ask or imagine, according to his power that is at work within us, to him be glory in the church and in Christ Jesus throughout all generations, for ever and ever! Amen."
